“ How do I do this? How do I tell someone I have Loved since first grade bye. I know you happy to be with Jesus and your Mama. Glad Ben is with you. But for those of us still in shock know our struggling is because you made such an impact in life. We were not ready. But God knows best. I guess I will say see you later. Thank you for your pure joy look at life.

“ I have loved Debbie for 56 years. She was so special to me, as well as everyone who ever met her. She was dedicated to Jesus, her husband, her children, grandkids, other family and her friends. She never waived from any of us ever. When she walked into a room with her huge smile, you could not help but smile. Her very bright star has moved from earth to Heaven. While she will be missed, I plan on seeing her again. ❤️

“ My heart is full of so many joyous times spent with my dear friend Debbie ❤️❤️. She was always where she was needed even before we knew there was a need. Full of love & ready to help. Forever in my heart & my deepest sympathy to her sweet family.

“ May God comfort you Shannon, Cody and family in this devastating loss. No words can help, but God can. Knowing your mom and Ben are in the arms of our Lord and Savior is your strength for now and always. We don't understand the why's in this world, but He does, and that's all we need to know. Knowing Him is the way to seeing them again.

His Word tells us that life here is but a vapor, compared to the eternity. Lord, please keep Your loving grace and mercy around this family, heal their broken hearts. In Jesus's name, I pray, amen.

“ My friend my sister by choice my confidant, I will forever miss having you in my life. The world is not as bright with you not in it and will never be the same. Now when I talk to you it will be knowing that you can hear my heart as well as my words. I always will love you. Until we meet again
