Raised by her grandparents John and Anna Dill Haynes Freeman, Doris spent her formative years in Forney, Texas and graduated from Forney High School. She was a woman of many passions, with a love for family that shone brightly during every holiday gathering. Her home was a place of warmth and celebration, filled with the aroma of delicious dishes lovingly prepared for her family and friends.

She identified as a colorist, infusing her works with bright, vibrant hues that reflected the richness of her spirit. Her artistic talent was a source of inspiration for all who were fortunate enough to experience her creations.

Doris shared a love for travel with her husband, David Houston Dugan, whom she married in Dallas on August 12, 1950. Together, they explored 49 of the 50 states, creating cherished memories along the way. Her appreciation for literature led her to enjoy poetry and reading, with a particular fondness for biographies and memoirs, especially those highlighting the stories of women.

“ Karen, Catherine, Chris, Kammi and Jennifer. Your mom/meemaw always welcomed me with a smile into her home and was always gracious. Her smile and laugh was infectious. And all the good food she had. My heart is broken right now and I send prayers your way. Love Carla Howeth
