“ A few years ago Travis and I were sending messages back and forth. We were talking about one night on Crystal Beach when we were little. It was a full moon I was probably around 8 years old. We walked up and down the beach singing when the moon hits your eye like a big pizza pie that’s Amore’. We had many adventures at the beach house in Galveston and I’m blessed to have those memories to cling to now. Below were his words to me while thinking back.

“That’s amore’!! I can still remember that day at the beach house walking with you singing that silly song over and over. If we only knew then. This life is crazy and short, don’t waste a second of it with trivial things or trying to be someone your not”
